

Contents

| | | |
|---------------|--|-----------|
| | Acknowledgements | 7 |
| | Contributors | 8 |
| | Introduction | 9 |
| | Emile Hokayem | |
| Chapter One | The Transition: From Mubarak’s Fall to the 2014 Presidential Election | 15 |
| | Nathan J. Brown | |
| | The revolution and its contradictions | 16 |
| | Egypt’s first transition | 18 |
| | The Morsi presidency | 22 |
| | After 3 July: the state reassembled | 26 |
| | Conclusion: the Sisi presidency | 29 |
| Chapter Two | Courts and police in revolution | 33 |
| | Ellis Goldberg | |
| | The police | 35 |
| | The courts | 37 |
| | The constitution and elections | 40 |
| | Morsi as president | 44 |
| | Conclusion | 46 |
| Chapter Three | The Military | 53 |
| | Zeinab Abul-Magd | |
| | From socialism to neoliberalism, 1950s–2000s | 55 |
| | Winning a revolution, 2011–13 | 60 |
| | Sisi vs malcontents | 64 |
| | Conclusion | 69 |
| Chapter Four | The Muslim Brotherhood | 75 |
| | Yasser El-Shimy | |
| | A revolutionary opportunity for an evolutionary movement | 77 |
| | One against all | 81 |
| | The state is the enemy; long live the state! | 87 |
| | The army | 88 |
| | The police and the judiciary | 91 |
| | The Brotherhood survives the coup | 92 |

| | | |
|---------------|---|-----|
| Chapter Five | Egypt's Non-Islamist Parties Michael Hanna Defining non-Islamism 107 Structure and design 111 Fracture, dissipation and triangulation 116 Brotherhood maximalism 120 The death of possibility 124 | 105 |
| Chapter Six | Civil Society Hisham Hellyer Youth 132 NGOs 138 Labour 142 Media 144 Conclusion 147 | 131 |
| Chapter Seven | A revolution without a revolutionary foreign policy Gamal Abo Al Hassan Egyptian foreign policy under Nasser, Sadat and Mubarak 153 The challenges of the Arab Spring 157 SCAF rule: forces of continuity vs inconsistent attempts at change 158 Foreign policy under Morsi 161 30 June and beyond: business as usual? 165 New challenges 168 Conclusion 172 | 151 |
| Chapter Eight | Militarisation and Security Challenges in Egypt Hebatalla Taha North Sinai: between militant and military violence 178 Beyond the Sinai: the spread of violence throughout Egypt 185 The Libyan front: spill-over and intervention 189 The Sisi strategy and the militarisation project 191 Conclusion 194 | 177 |
| Chapter Nine | The Egyptian Economy Mohamed El Dahshan Egypt under the Muslim Brotherhood: the wrong experiments at the worst possible time 205 The rise of Sisinomics 207 2015: the Egypt Economic Development Conference and future plans 209 Insufficient social justice and economic inclusiveness efforts 213 Conclusion 215 | 201 |