

Contents

Commentary

- 7 The Emperor vs the Adults: Donald Trump and Wilhelm II François Heisbourg
The analogy between the US president and German emperor works because of similar institutional and international realities, and because personality matters.
- 13 The Logic of American Strategy in the Middle East Ash Carter
The Department of Defense remains engaged in the Middle East because doing so serves both America's interests and those of its regional allies and partners.
- 25 An Order of Priorities in Confronting Iran Mark Fitzpatrick
It is far better to implement an incomplete but effective nuclear agreement than to scrap it, hoping to achieve the best outcome while ending up with the worst.

30 Noteworthy

Great Powers and Small States

- 33 Understanding the US–Russia Nuclear Schism Alexey Arbatov
The deep strategic differences between the United States and Russia, and the origins of those differences, have never been properly understood by either side.
- 67 Small States and Finlandisation in the Age of Trump Hans Mouritzen
In a multipolar world with weak institutions, and where the alternative can be chaos and war, Finlandisation is better than its reputation.
- 85 Asia's Diplomacy of Violence: China–US Coercion and Regional Order Robert Ayson and Manjeet S. Pardesi
Military coercion has already changed the Asia-Pacific region.

On the cover
Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany (1859–1941), pictured circa 1910, left, and Urho Kekkonen (1900–86), president of Finland from 1956–81, pictured in 1975, right.

On the web
Visit www.iiss.org/publications/survival for brief notices on new books on War, Conflict and the Military, the Middle East, Politics and International Relations, and the United States.

Survival editors' blog
For ideas and commentary from Survival editors and contributors, visit www.iiss.org/politicsandstrategy.

125 Genius and Mastery in Military Innovation Nina Kollars

When it comes to creating new battlefield concepts and capabilities, buying cutting-edge machines is not enough.

139 Was Libya's Collapse Predictable? Wolfram Lacher

The debate over whether the Libyan intervention was justified should take as its starting point the imponderables facing decision-makers in March 2011.

153 Building on the Iran Nuclear Agreement David Hannay and Thomas R. Pickering

The new constraints on, and monitoring of, Iran's nuclear programme could be held as the gold standard for a strengthened non-proliferation regime.

Review Essays

167 Iran's Revolutionary Guards: Readyng Strength Naysan Rafati

The Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps is a state sponsor of terrorism, economic juggernaut, internal security service, expeditionary force and key political actor.

177 Book Reviews

War, Conflict and the Military H.R. McMaster

Middle East Ray Takeyh

Politics and International Relations Gilles Andréani

United States David C. Unger

205 Letter to the Editor

Closing Argument

211 General McMaster's Sandwich Jonathan Stevenson

The new US national security advisor's effectiveness will depend on President Donald Trump's whim.